++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Fine and settled for most.

Today:

Low cloud and fog soon clearing to leave sunny spells across most parts. Sunniest in the west where it will feel very warm. Cloudier and cooler around some northern and eastern coasts.

Tonight:

Low cloud continuing to affect some northern and eastern coasts, perhaps with a little drizzle in places. Clear spells inland with a few fog patches forming in the north.

Wednesday:

Low cloud and fog patches clearing inland to allow plenty of warm sunshine, and feeling very warm in the northwest again. Cooler and cloudier along some eastern and northern coasts.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:

Fine with light winds, variable cloud and sunny spells. Warm in the west at first, turning cooler and breezier from the east. Threat of showers in the southeast on Saturday.
